Memory Lane

Morningstar Living is dedicated to providing education to caregivers, professionals and community members about dementia-related diseases. Memory Lane is an initiative aimed at providing information and education to the public, specifically about dementia.

Alzheimer's disease affects more than memory—it also damages the brain's blood vessels and the protective blood-brain barrier. In this seminar, Silvia Fossati, PhD, Director, Alzheimer's Center at Temple will share emerging findings on how abnormal amyloid and tau proteins stress brain blood vessel cells, disrupt energy production, trigger inflammation, and accelerate nerve cell damage. Dr. Fossati will highlight groundbreaking research being conducted at Temple University that shows how targeting specific mitochondrial enzymes may protect blood vessels, restore barrier function, and improve the brain's ability to clear toxic proteins. These discoveries point to promising new treatment strategies now being explored for future clinical trials.

Understanding and Protecting Brain Blood Vessels in Alzheimer's Disease

Thursday, June 18th at 6:00 PM

SPEAKER: Silvia Fossati, PhD
Director, Alzheimer's Center at Temple

ANSWER:

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Paul Miller's Law Fully Takes Effect June 5, Strengthening Pennsylvania's Fight Against Distracted Driving

Sen. Rosemary Brown (R-40) is reminding motorists that beginning Friday, June 5, Pennsylvania's Paul Miller's Law will be fully enforceable as the one-year warning period comes to an end.

Named in honor of Paul Miller Jr., who was killed in 2010 by a distracted driver, the law prohibits drivers from using a handheld mobile device while operating a motor vehicle. During the last year, law enforcement officers issued written warnings to educate drivers about the new requirements. Beginning Friday, violations will carry a $50 fine, plus court costs and other fees.

"Paul Miller's Law was enacted to save lives and prevent families from experiencing the devastating consequences of distracted driving," Brown said. "The educational period has given drivers time to adjust their habits. Now, with full enforcement beginning, I urge every Pennsylvanian to put their phone down, stay focused on the road and help make our highways safer for everyone."

Act 18 of 2024 prohibits drivers from using a handheld interactive mobile device while driving, including while temporarily stopped in traffic or at a red light. Drivers may still use hands-free technology and exceptions exist for emergency situations. The measure was signed into law in 2024 and took effect June 5, 2025, with a one-year warning period before citations could be issued. Beginning June 5, 2026, violations will be punishable as a summary offense.

Brown, the prime sponsor of the legislation, worked alongside Eileen Miller and the Miller family for years to advance the measure through the General Assembly. The law was designed to close loopholes in Pennsylvania's previous texting-while-driving ban and establish a comprehensive hands-free standard.

"Every driver has a responsibility to keep their attention on the road," Brown said. "If this law prevents even one family from enduring the loss the Miller family has experienced, it will have made a meaningful difference."

For more information about Paul Miller's Law, motorists can visit the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation's distracted driving resource page at <https://www.pa.gov/agencies/penndot/traveling-in-pa/safety/traffic-safety-driver-topics/distracted-driving>
